In May 2023, the project partners met again online. During this exchange, they focused intensively on the best suited presentation of the indicators in the online tool and possible modifications to be made for the launch of the beta version of the tool on May 20, 2023. In addition, the meeting served to prepare the upcoming third transnational meeting, which was planned for the end of May in Valencia.

Furthermore, a workshop on the learning units of the online tool was part of the program. In tandem teams, general feedback on the online tool was developed to enable further improvement of the tool and its functions. In another workshop, the questions for the online survey to evaluate the acceptance of the online tool among the target group were evaluated and critically discussed.
